

Lemon juice effective against HIV

'Lemon Vs. HIV' was the topic of discussion in the 15th International AIDS Conference held at Bangkok, Thailand recently. After conducting a research on monkeys, it was revealed that the HIV casual organisms get destroyed when it come in contact of lemon juice. The scientists are now planning for a research on human beings.

According to Prof. Rodger V. Short, University of Melbourne, lemon juice not only kills the HIV but also acts as a contraceptive. He assessed the findings as miraculous. The HIV viruses were killed when lemon juice was added to the culture tube. He is working on the same project now with the cooperation of the Thailand Govt.

Source : Amar Ujala, 18 July 2004